“ Dennis and I were roommates at GT during our freshman year in architecture and remained friends during his early professional period working with SOM on the construction of the Georgia-Pacific headquarters building. He transitioned after completion of construction to working there in building and property management for many years. Before I met my wife, who worked in the building, she knew Dennis as the Mayor of Georgia-Pacific. Dennis left a positive mark on everyone he met, especially me, and I express my condolences to his family on your loss

“ I am sending love and prayers to all of Dennis’s family and friends. I met Dennis at Georgia-Pacific in Atlanta when I was an Interior Designer considering making a change into sales. I met with him and he called me to place an order for furniture that same day so I took the sales job. He knew it would be great move for me. We had so many great times over the years that we worked together. I have the highest respect for him. Keeping up while walking with him was always a challenge as I am short! He had a great sense of humor , knowledge of the industry and respect for others. He taught me to line dance and made me feel appreciated. I had not spoken to him in a while but he appeared in my dreams recently. I think he was saying hi. I am thankful he was such an important part of my life. ❤️
