“ When Helen attended midwifery school she was my student in labor & delivery at a busy Bronx hospital. The day she arrived the labor room was so crowded that patients were lined up on stretchers in the hallway. Helen was not fazed; she went right to work caring for mothers and delivering babies until our shift ended 12 hours later. We also were colleagues at another hospital. It was always a pleasure to work together. She was a wonderful and caring person. My condolences to the family on their loss.
