“ There are three central values in life--the experiential, or that which happens to us, the creative, or that which we bring into existence, and the attitudinal, or our response in difficult circumstances. The highest of these is attitudinal. In other words, what matters most is how we respond to what we experience in life. Inez Roberts demonstrated how to move through all of life's ups and downs with a sense of joy.

I am grateful for the time I was able to spend with Inez, particularly for the opportunity to learn about her life, family and values. I remember Inez as an articulate and graceful human being who looked at the world through the lens of supporting young people--she saw this as her most important contribution to the future.
