“ *There lived a Rose in Rockaway.
Whose roots were planted firmly in the concrete jungle.
Her precious pedals provided protection, love, and shelter for her seeds.
She nutured them with all they would need,
should the season come where she would no longer be there;
to weather life's storms with them.
However, the beauty in which she survived all up to this point
shall be a reminder to them
that the sun will shine again.
No matter how cloudy it may seem,
no matter how cold the world may be,
Continue to grow
Continue to show
the world, who you are.
To whom you are.
A product of that Rose from Rockaway.
May the beauty in how you live your lives be the perfection reflection of her intentions for you, her very reason for being.*
